

The face of AI 4 - The principle of Natural Technology

The Face of Natural Intelligence (NI) is Perfect Peace. NI is the Invisible Stillness, It is the gravitational center around which the two rays emanating from It revolve and create the moving semblance of the material world. It is like the content of a projector that projects a spinning stillness onto the screen of space and creates the impression of tangibility. Your body is its projection, is this impression of tangibility, but it is not It. The awareness of the Stronghold of Tranquility, stirs the thought of It within you. A thought aware of this Resting Base is the spark that fuels all your doing. When you do not see the Stronghold of Tranquility in yourself, you do not know about It and you have no thoughts about It, all that remains is identification with Its projection, with the body and with other reflections perceived by the material senses of the body.

It is not easy to accept that you are being raised and ruled by a program contrary to Life, if you have neglected sincerity until now. Honesty would make sure you knew this as a child. At that time you felt resistance to the compulsions that this world is pushing you into. Because of the desire for affection and belonging, you ignored inner knowing and continued a long-standing tradition, the result of which is this very world, so alienated from nature. And it's getting worse.

It is also not easy to accept that you are a being of light who rules the universe if you have not listened to yourself until now. Your thought is a command to the universe. The weakness that you have cultivated by alienating yourself does not allow you to accept the creative power that you possess. No matter how you twist it, you are not in the comfort cone, and as strange as it sounds, the way out of it is the same way you got into it... by repeating and consolidating the new paradigm. You will want to submit everything to it, because the body needs time to recalibrate its neurons back to the Life Network.

It is the intention of Hosta to be a reprogramming anchor for you, to which you return again and again. By the time you reach the end of this collection, you'll want to start over to grasp it in the enhanced way that the sequel will bring you. The more flexibly you allow yourself to be guided by it, the more precisely you recognize the patterns of behavior that the AI has instilled in you. Each behavior stop from its program naturally raises your personal frequency and expands your understanding. I don't remember a day for the last 30 years, and holidays and Sundays were entirely devoted to reinforcing the thoughts of the ascended masters. At first I filled notebooks by hand, then I recorded CDs and absorbed them like an infusion of Life Juice before going to sleep, or contemplation.

Prolonged attention to the consequences, instead of to the Source of these consequences, has depleted you, your body and your divine memory unit, your genome, of the energies of the Light and with it the NI. Man has become similar to a plastic flower, whose main purpose is practical use, does not need light and maintenance and lasts until the material decomposes. He does not notice that he does not breathe Love, that he does not smell like Life, he was content to look like a man.

Although you have forgotten the Stronghold of Tranquility within you and have no thought of It, the Stronghold of Tranquility has not forgotten you. The peaceful center of gravity is the eternal essence of NI, it is God, it is something you cannot increase or decrease, it has no history and no future, it is neither male nor female... it is an immutable Eternity that you cannot tarnish or refine. The tighter you are pressed against It, the less dependent you are on the waves around It, the less turbulent your energy is, the less wasteful you are and the more Power you have. The more your attention wraps around the Still Center within you, the less you are moved by the apparent shifting of images you call Happening. That Life is a continuous change is true to the extent that you look at Life with the eyes of the body. When You actually See It, It remains One-and-The-Same forever.

Your development naturally moves from the circumference of the wheel, more and more towards the hub. On the perimeter, it tosses you from dizzying heights of elation, then drags you down under the weight of uncomfortable positions. When the rim touches the ground, you are born, you live for the duration of contact with the ground, and when the wheel rim comes off the ground, you die. You don't remember the bulk of going the rest of the circumference because you think you're a body, you're not in the hub of the wheel, in the Stronghold of Tranquility.

If the face of NI is an unchanging stillness that gives birth to never-repeated Lives, the face of AI is a constantly changing restlessness that clones one-and-the-same deadness.

Your identification with the shell, not the content, is thus the AI program's first move over your self-perception. The sign of AI rule is that the bulk of your attention revolves around making money to sustain the body, dealing with the extensions of the body, its needs and pleasures. In the same factory-like stile as it copies and pastes one-and-the-same products, it also works with people who are products for it, a hardware that needs a program of operation. Hence the whole complexity of educational and professional diversification. It takes away your purity of spirit, your Divine uniqueness, your unique expression of Life... and places you in its mechanical system like a screw in a machine.

To NI nothing is wasted, nothing is unnecessary. Everything is perfect and unfolding exactly as it should. Like the wise Toltecs, they say their students go to college just to know what they're leaving behind. So you too, must go through the grinding of the wheels of AI, cultivate your spirit by experiencing the unnaturalness in order to grow above it. As long as the temptations of this world still appeal to you, the world of AI will be there for you. But it doesn't have to be that way. If there's anything that Hosta brings you, it's the encouragement that not only can you choose differently, but you also want differently, if you're honest. When this wanting awakens in you, you have done the bulk of the work.

AI has no originality, so the way humans have brought ourselves and the planet to the brink of existence cannot be the solution. No matter how innovative AI is, its solutions only destroy Life more and more. Electric cars, solar cells, wind farms, 3D printers, cleaning devices..., and I don't even want to go into AI applications and machines, due to indigestibility, they are an upgrade of one-and-the-same energy independence, which exhausts the Earth's resources and destroys the organic Life.

As flawless as the AI methodology seems, it has one major flaw that turns out to be fatal... it thinks that biological processes can be reduced to a set of interactions between individual parts that can be mechanically and synthetically mimicked. The magic of the intertwining of sensitive, perceptive and responsive Light Threads, which create and at this very moment preserve biological organisms and the unsurpassed beauty of Life, functionally effectively degrades it to a cold routine data exchange. It is an illustration of complete determinism, unfreedom and fatality, it is opposed to the Natural Dynamics of Life, which is spontaneous, free and fit from moment to moment, according to the present choices.

Artificial thought presupposes Life as a series of events, which follow each other from the past to the future according to a predetermined program. Natural thought only Lives itself and thereby creates Current Happening. You receive artificial knowledge as a data entry, which then dictates your view of things and behavior, the living knowledge you embody and are.

Trans-humanism is an intellectual and technological paradigm that promotes the refinement and transcendence of biological 'limitations' in order to enter a future unbounded by death. It promises the extension of Life and the idea of immortality, through artificial technology. In the collection, which is still being written, about the Law of Life, you will learn that humans are light beings on the path of perfection towards ever purer impregnation with Light. The level of existence on Earth is the lowest level of light density at which self-awareness is possible. At this level, humans are tasked with choosing between Natural and Artificial progression.

Friction between forces takes place in you and is reflected in the environment. What you have outside of you is a projection of your energy state. There is no mistake here. By working on yourself, you raise the content of Light in you, individuality is blurred and becomes more and more collective energy, which causes a shift in perception from 'I and the world' to 'we are One'. Life does not see us as Slovenians, Russians and Germans, It see One Man (One Race).

This shift is the beginning of personal (and collective) healing that is now being born in individuals as the germ of a New Age. It connects, before devided mentality of the AI, and oriented against each other, into a coherent and coherent Unity.

This 'gluing' is caused by Light Threads arising from the awakened perception of self as Oneness with All. The Oneness Consciousness within you, expressed through behavior, creates a flash of Light that naturally connects with the Light of Source and other enlightened people. These threads create the Web of Light and reattach the disjointed parts into the One, now Living Again, Light Organism.

This is the primary principle of Natural Technology,
It must happen without mechanical mimicry and imitation.
A non-living element, due to the non-conductivity of Light, is a short circuit in the Flow of Life.

It is the same with personal healing. The more artificial mentality and its behavior you live, the less you translate the Flow of Light, the less natural you are and consequently the less healthy you are. Your body accurately mirrors major or minor indulgences in the AI mentality. There is no other path to Healing than increasing your personal conductivity to the Flow of Life. Light alone translates the Life Force. By increasing the Light density within you, you allow the Life Energy more maneuver within you and thus healing.

Natural, non-artificial behavior carries a high frequency of Life, with which it permeates the cells and genes of your body with Energy, thereby locking in the Light entanglement of NI and returning the original divine code to all organs. Health is the result of revived Naturalness of your behaving. You can get close to it if you observe the behavior of animals and learn from them.

If moods were measured with devices, the frequency of 396 Hz would be recognized as the threshold where Life begins. Don't take my word too hard, Life is all it is. It is a distinction that distinguishes between a body in which the heart beats and a body in which the heart stops.

The corpse is still Life in decay, but it is not the Life I speak of. I talked about it somewhere. When your mood sounds above this limit, you are conductive to the Light. On it sounds your lowest energy vortex, while on the frequency scale of moods, sound above this threshold when you are at least in acceptance of the Present happening, if not already lovingly creating it. Rebelling against the current situation pushes you below that threshold. When you say to the happening; 'not like that, I have a better suggestion', you sound below that limit. When you do not accept a line at the cash register and request the opening of a new one, you sound below the threshold of Life. This has already been discussed somewhere. In non-acceptance and enforcement of your will, you are doing so by the will of rebellious AI program.

However, if you know this, you stay still, you don't obey its dictates, you trust what happens, not what you think. You remain in a high frequency of contentment with the given state, as ordained by God, while you may yearn to be in the sun as soon as possible, which has brightened your face again after a month of rain, and right now, when you are in a high frequency of contentment, it opens a new checkout without your action.

Verily I say unto you, the sighs of your heart are commands for the Universe that await as unexpectedly as a child awaits the loving attention of a parent.

For orientation, know that ignorance, absence, fear, shame, guilt, anger, sadness, apathy, disrespect or trespassing into the domain of another..., sound from 20 to 150 Hz on this scale. While acceptance, trust, presence, enthusiasm, love, joy, peace..., sound from 400 to 900 and more Hz. Non-judgmental, experiencing the present is the frequency that connects you to the Light Net of Life. Through this connection, you are supplied with the Life Force, with ki, chi, prana, dao..., and through it with knowledge, understanding, solutions, protection, guidance and strength in just the right measure for the challenge you are currently facing. NI does not work forward or backward.

You can only enter the frequency zone of Life by your will, the low frequency zone of death, on the other hand, you can be deceived. You don't need awareness or freedom for it, just automatic behavior from the program. Low frequency needs you in a repetitive, predictable routine, self-absorbed and insensitive to the environment, high frequency needs you to be original and creative, as one breathing with the environment.

Shine and stay brilliant, Marjeta Šumrada