The face of AI 5

The story of the Light

It's a Christmas morning, the sun is announcing, but it's not yet come out. Let's enter into the continuation of this collection with another Župančič's poetry. Let it support us in the timid beginnings of loving ones.

" Alpha and Omega, The Word, fabulous power, which old chaos you separated into day and night.
Mysteriously constructively utterly all around,
You maintain the world and direction and last destination.
And with three times the eternal of God yes,
You keep waking out of sleep."

The story of the earth, driven by fear and hatred of living and natural, conflicts with the Earth's story, with its patterns of biological diversity, organic connection, and consideration of coexistence, and thus with your naturalness. The transformation of people into sensitive, light beings, is not a dream of naive, they are the only alternative. A story in which one approaches nature as a thing to things is a story that begins to end with the first step ..., because everything that comes from thought, separated from the Source, from the ungodly thought, has no life duration. If you do not stop in obedience to it, its story is yours too and you will fall with it. The statistics of the legacy are obvious, don't think it is far when there will be no more organic soil on Earth if we don't choose otherwise. If you want to eat and breathe, you will have to agree to the conditions of AI, on the chip in your head and control over your thoughts, it will give you air and food that will no longer be organic. Remember how it conditioned the vaccination.

"Blessed to the meek and the poor in the spirit, because they are the heavenly kingdom," is Jesus' invitation to love and biological ascension. Poorness in the spirit is the simplicity of naturalness. In your body and soul, you carry a memory of an ancient story that is revived by every breath you make in the company of God. Humans are nature, we are strawberries on the cream of beautiful creations of Natural intelligence. It is not intended for us not to feel the soil under our feet, to spend 90% of our time behind the walls under artificial lights and look at monitors or manage machines. This is an idea you don't have to live. Its story for you can end now. May your story continue from here as a phoenixes story that shakes off the ashes of self-forgetfulness, push into the heights of loving ones, and invite God to their thought again. It's healthy to need a natural life, the beneficial sounds of nature, its scents, shapes, and vibrations, as an active will that so wants in everything you do.

The way of thinking that raises you is more close to you than you would like. When you want to live more naturally, the thought will give you reasons why you would not listen. We all obey them... and we give our children an example of obedience to it, which does not love them. Children feel the insincerity of adults and often flee to unhealthy comforts.

Everyone has their answer to finding their way back to the primal story and has never pulsated stronger. No one can hold on much longer, we are all in the end with strength, and more and more powerful is the cover of insensitivity. And every day it will be worse until we choose otherwise. Everything that shapes this world must go through the sieve of the awakened fusion with God and put anew. Then natural health and beauty will return. We will realize that nature and our naturalness are the highest medicine. We destroy 25% of tropical forests annually and for medicines we swallow, spend 2 trillion USD. How many trees would be planted every year for this money and would need no medicines? Nursing the environment also heals us. Our illiteracy to read the obvious chills my spine.

No one can tell you what these paths are and what new possibilities look like, we are all pioneers of discovering naturalness within the artificial world. Your love and feeling will guide you, the old system will hinder you. However, the artificial was never meant to last. We are now grateful and wiser and can start writing a much more intrinsic story of the awakened in Love, who know where the boundaries of life are. The moral compass is not human law and punishment, but the soul fused with God.

I'm not for action, I am for awareness. Awareness is a Light that shines into the darkness of thoughts separated from God. It is enough to light up the Light and see the unworthy of the godless ideas you follow. What do you see when you are once illuminated with a Light? You see everything as it is, not as you think it is. In the collection "The Way of My Creations", I tried to describe what is 'seeing'. From the position from which we look at the state of things today, vision is not comforting in that aspect that exposes you in insincerity, and is blissful in the aspect that exposes you in naturalness. The insincerity is a black coat thrown over your light and what you see dressed up like that, is ugly and black. You think Life is this veil over your eyes. It's really not.

Honesty would not want to wear shoes and walk on the hard ground of cities. Honesty could not be closed between the walls. Honesty would never replace a horse for a car, a goat for a mower, a bear for a digging machine, or birds, and crickets for digital sounds. Honesty would not be able to leave the child and give him or her to raise to institutions.

Honesty could not poison themselves with harmful substances. Honesty would not be able to step into the aluminum market without windows and support factory production. Honesty escapes from mechanical noise, artificial light, sound systems, masses, and alien places. Honesty could not destroy nature at a place where she and her beloved will reside. Honesty would not be able to domesticate animals, put leashes for them, or close them in cages. Honesty would not be able to tear down a tree that is not already dry and has given itself. Honesty would not be able to isolate the plant from the vital numbers and force them into unnatural monocultures. Honesty cannot argue, nag, or harm, no matter how tight it is pushed into the corner. Honesty is not capable of acting that would darken its Light of awareness.

Honesty seeks and needs harmony with itself. Honesty appreciates simple attention. It is cheered by a happy face on a foggy morning and a cup of coffee during the anticipation of sunrise. Honesty needs peace and mildness in thoughts, words, and actions that do not disturb its sensitivity. Honesty appreciates the intimacy of homeliness. Honesty needs alertness and calmness so that it can deepen into soul depths and excavate creative inspiration. Honesty is caring for beautiful and natural as it is. Honesty lives to make you happy. Honesty is attentive to the needs of loved ones. Honesty is considerate for Life in things and spirit. The world it creates is heaven without distress, illness, and lack.

How to twist your story in the direction that supports Life, is a question that should echo in your soul until the answer happens to you.
Your light-rising needs actions of love.

The alleged well-being, as promised by godless thought, is the deception of the thought that the destroyed life is its value. Already talking about it is taking the power. In what kind of lowlands we spend all our lives, know those who have already come out from them. You do not need devices, or experts, to notice how better you feel when you love when you support, when you are useful, move in the sun and wind, and follow natural rhythms in yourself and nature..., as when you are not like that and have a day filled with the choices you do not want.

Light is conducted only by natural moods.

High moods are an ether of the spirit, there are conditions of being, and they are your authenticity. High moods are fed by understanding and peace, by nurturing life and giving love, so the man of the spirit is reassured about himself and watching for opportunities to give. Low moods are an exhaust of the mind, so one worries about things and is in a state of permanent threat.

His food is negative, so he looks for opportunities to be able to throw it out or take advantage, thereby showing the choice for fear and hate. A man of separate thought is hungry for food outside himself, which does not satiate him. This is a hellish loop of weakness.

Therefore, prefer to sympathize with those who, in one way or another, betray you or deceive you, rather than condemn them. With such actions, they write a terrible destiny, while your understanding brightens you more and more, drives you away from the energetical lowlands, and creates, with your higher vibration, more consistent circumstances.

So you notice that in the same situation, spiritually realized and unrealized behave out of what they are and have, the circumstances are just triggers of your content. So be careful and courageously read the unconsciousness that Happening reveals to you. How would NI otherwise bring you to understanding, if not so that you see in others what you do not see in yourself? When you accept the Happening, you accept yourself and you overcome the unconscious. This is the wonderful nature of Light that requires nothing but a Presence in the present moment, then It does the rest. Where It shines its beam, it disappears ignorance and its lowlands, and you are healed in this aspect that you make it aware.

Presence is your only defense against the unconsciousness of the mind.

Be particularly careful in uncomfortable positions, prolonged pain, and exacerbating pressure that exhausts you, physically and mentally weakens you. Low moods are not your own, they are grown. You do not find destructive emotions and moods in nature. Therefore, the less you are in the mind, the less low energy you create.

You should learn to convince yourself personally of everything you agree upon, which you do so that you are experiencing yourself by being present in yourself. Presence is your protection, clarity, and win. Why do you make bad choices? What is it that gives you to think that you can't choose otherwise? You will be amazed when you get to know the power of your perspective on what you are looking at because you always see what you think. No matter what position these words find you, don't be afraid of anything.

Fear is an out-minded, your authenticity does not know it. Fear of how you will survive, feed your children, pay bills, or whatever you are afraid of... is a projection of the mind that does not want you to listen to your heart. NI is nourishing, caring, and protective, in which you will convince yourself when you obey love and trust its leadership.

Until you choose Love and you don't know it yet, you are easy prey to the projections of the mind. Have you noticed that fear is taking a substance to intimidate from something that is not in the present moment? Is the projection of the worst possible scenario of future events? Learn how the mind deceives you to create exactly what you are afraid of since there is no future until you create it with your choices. So pay attention to which thought you accept and give it the power to create the Happening. More natural than when you love, you cannot be. The Toltecs are convinced that it is not terrible that you do not live by your naturalness until you don't know it, but it is really scary the cowardice not to live it once you know it.

Now is the time for sincerity, now it's time for the bold feats of fearless lovers of Life. Be like a frog in the desert, which is the only one on the top of the well, from where it looks to see how many other frogs managed to get to the water and notice that it is the only one. It was deaf. You too become deaf in this desert of non-loving, you know what tips can it give you. Rather, rest in the bliss of God who can do everything He desires. This is how you open up for unprecedented solutions and you will shown the way. Descend from the spiral of self-destruction, support the children in creating the organic world and biological advancement, so they know the power of love and light from which they are. Anastasia's abilities, complete health, and beauty, or Sai Babina healing and implementing objects, or managing nature elements, reconciliation of lifelong disputes, re-union between people and nature... are examples of light-denser people with Jesus at the helm... that testify these are natural gifts of acting love.

The organic tissue of Life is a flashing electric field, it is the heartbeat of God that is commended by your thoughts. The path of the solution is radical and at the same time the most natural, it is a return of power to you, individuals, awakened in Love who do not need external restrictions not to cross the Law of Life. The story we write now will bypass rationalism, which perceives Life as a thing that feels nothing. The trees you intend to cut down and in their place put the godless ideas, the spirit of a sensitive Life in them senses your intention and leaves before you cut down the trees. The orange markings on trees intended to be cut are a command to the tree's consciousness that they have to obey and have already gone. Life is so quickly retreating from Earth because we do not incorporate It into our ideas. It is not in our thoughts. Your healing will be healing the earth when you start to see and perceive God in everything. Then by this fusion, you will be inspired for careful approaches to everything. You will completely abandon many of the activities, and new, higher points will be created where you want to direct the nourishing creativity of love.
