

Biology is Divine

The body's ability to heal itself, restore itself, adapt to changes, replace losses... is obvious, but we don't see Divinity in it. We persist in the feeling of helplessness and randomness, regarding what happens to us, we still expect and pay for the cause and solution from outside. For the past few decades, quantum science has been coming to conclusions, that the spiritually awakened have always been coming to with a quiet look at themselves and nature. One is that you very, very rarely find abnormalities in nature's organisms, but if you do, they are conditioned by the human factor.

Quantum science bridges the gap between dependence on mechanical devices and other people to learn about yourself and the Truth of Life... and the independence of receiving information, inspiration and knowledge directly. It is a springboard for seeing findings that point the finger at our natural abilities that devices mimic. The attention turned outwards caused the stunting of biological processes, now they are being replaced by chemistry and mechanics, too. On the threshold of selling Divinity for syntheticity, it is the right moment to recognize Divinity precisely in the delicate softness of organicity.

We realize how little we know ourselves. The more your attention rests in the natural position in your center, the more you grow from the expanses that unfold from this Stillness. When I see a 7-year-old girl at the forest retreats, staring silently into the flames with straight spine, while the group gathers for a new day, the sight of this Beauty washes away the stains that have accumulated on my eyes while watching the hurrying, absent people. What a Power! What Divinity shines from this calm dignity of being!

Every organism, every organ, every cell... heals itself, reverses the path and restores the defect to a perfect life code, if it is in the right environment and exposed to the right conditions. Everything begins in the heart. This is where your highest mastery comes from. We are the only Life form that has the capabilities described by this drop. I look forward to the day when science and spirituality meet and offer us the evolutionary momentum necessary to pass the trials that this very generation of Earthlings is witnessing after thousands of years of development.

The best possible reality you can build is one in which you are the highest version of yourself. There is no other way to improve your environment and relationships than by raising your personal vibration and becoming more in tune with the breadth of the all-encompassing energy of Love.

We are in an unusually turbulent period, my answer to the questions of young people is whether it has always been this way. Energy accumulates, it is stoked, time spins faster, more developmental leaps happen in less time. We are right before the boiling point, on the threshold of something big... a change that will not bypass anyone.

Young people in particular feel it, they don't know how to name it, but they know it's important and they know they're part of it. It is natural for them to wonder what is happening, what to do, how they can help. The only way is to go through. We have to go through a renewal of thinking. We cannot avoid it or prevent it. Stopping at a certain point of development is simply not possible. The question is whether you will go through it soft, willing, cooperative and come out stronger on the other side... or hard, immovable, rebellious, exhausted and landed hard. These types of drops can help you with this.

The more you know yourself, the less you fear change. Your Knowing, your feeling, your heart tells you that growth is necessary, that you should not be afraid of it, and that you are more than capable of it. You may even feel that you are superbly equipped for such trials. The moment Life presents you with something that you don't yet know and that contradicts the known, but which has left you down, don't try to squeeze the unknown into the known. Rather, open a new section labeled 'Possibilities' and allow the unknown to flow into it unhindered. This is the only way you will feel the nurturing vibration that usually accompanies Life's novelties, instead of opposing them due to their inconsistency with what is known.

This is easily overlooked energetic maneuver where your essence lies, the ability to grow and constantly rise, most naturally within you. To allow yourself joy and pain, pleasant and unpleasant, and accept both as something that comes and goes, knowing that you remain still in the Perfection that does not pass away. To love yourself enough and allow yourself both without losing yourself in one or the other.

Quantum science is used today as a language to communicate spiritual facts or Natural Laws. We realize how unsurpassed a form of Natural Technology we are. Your biologicalness, your loving humanity, is in great demand by those who do not want you in the Power of this Knowing. This is the reason for the unfolding of events on this plane of existence as you know them.

In the depths of the self of each one of us, there is something so Powerful, something so Sacred, that wars are being waged and pandemics are being started, in order to keep you busy with something and keep you away from this Power. They will go so far as to see the collapse of societies, financial systems, and such and other dramatics will be thrown in order to keep you away from Divinity, which is possible only through impeccable biology.

Meanwhile, the highly progressive, sex-appealing, 'ego' driven trans-humanism movement is taking over this world to replace your biology with synthetics, chemistry, blood sensors under your skin, AI chips in your heads, growing people in mechanical wombs ... and stripped you of your biologicalness before you knew that you, biologically, are the highest Power of creation.

Here, under the trees, where the impressions of Life are gathered together, I see how dangerously close we are to the point of selling out the divine naturalness for a cheap mimicry, before we know what the Divinity is at all. We are more than what we are told, and everyone owes it to themselves to know themselves before gullibly agreeing to what is offered, promoted, legalized and even forced. It is good to know that Divinity is not a religious word. It signifies the ability to transcend the perceptual limitations placed upon you by your bodily senses... you are more than you think. It means overcoming the fears that keep you stuck. You cannot be controlled without fear because you have the freedom to Love, express yourself and create Love. This is your Divinity.

If you investigate how everlasting masterpieces are created, you will learn that they are created without a sense of personal doing and give the impression of passing through, not out of a person. Although it could mean the same thing, a distinction must be made between Beauty created by a man who does not think he is doing it and a product made by a man who thinks he is doing it who takes credit for it. The former is Divine, the latter is not. The Divine is Eternal, impersonal, not conditioned by time and space, it is the source of creativity, it is the seat of intuition and imagination... it is what separates us from all other forms of Life. We can access It only through these bodies, through the divine genetic code, which is an antenna for catching Divinity, through each Light cell, which is information in motion.

Light and darkness are impersonal energies until you, by agreeing bring them to life, and so give them creative or destructive power. Both of them want you for themselves, the first because of Love, to give you its Life through biological nature, the second because of personal interests, to take your Life Force and use it for their artificial invention.

The battle between them begins at the very beginning of time, is it a conscious and intelligent... or a random dead process. Are we the fruit of the happy coincidence of the mutations of biology, as they try to tell us... or are we beloved children of the Most High.

The events of the last five years reflect the counter-pressure of the Power of Light awakening within us to keep us away from inner focus. Whoever has obeyed the instructions of the Light and devoted this time to turning inward has built up enough detachment from this drama to see the bigger picture for himself and properly place events in the context of the ancient battle for your Divinity.

The word battle is probably no longer appropriate, it conveys that there is a conflict between two sides. It is the awakened Divinity that stops this conflict without dealing with it, without participating. Divinity is in the awareness of transcending the conflict that one side harbors by not paying attention to what we do not want. Not to win. Winning and losing is an old paradigm game that the Divine does not play. But rather in order to Live the highest reality, which we possess from Love for ourselves and Life, and finally express what it means to be a Human, which can be written with a Capital letter.
